

September 2016

Randy has been visiting us for a few days but tonight he must catch a plane for home.

I watched the plane take off tonight and the tears ran down my cheeks. No matter how old your kids are...and this one is almost 50...it doesn't get any easier when your "babies" leave for their own homes. I am so proud of my beloved five!

